This Is the Mennonite Church January 1, 1967

BY HOWARD J. ZEHR

Executive Secretary of Mennonite General Conference

The Mennonite Yearbook is now being printed in its 58th volume. It contains a wealth of interesting material which reveals the current life and activity of the body of believers known as the Mennonite Church. This body represents over 100,000 members scattered around the world. There are more than 1,000 congregations of worshiping and serving people located from Florida to Northern Alberta, from Quebec to Southern California, and in many overseas countries as the information in the Yearbook indicates.

Therefore, this volume is far more than merely a compilation of factual statistics. It is that, but the information in this book is in reality a partial record of the current life, witness, and service of a people of God living, witnessing, and working in today's world. Records and statistics can never tell the whole story. These more than 100,000 persons are moving about daily in God's world in one way or another. There are among them farmers, businessmen, skilled and unskilled laborers, professional persons, housewives, students, schoolteachers, and hosts of others. As these persons move daily in our society, they penetrate our world with a witness. It is our constant and earnest prayer that each may be moving about in faithful response to the One who has said, "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you" into the world, for "As he is, so are we in this world."

The Mennonite Church is a relatively small body of people in comparison with the world's population, and even in comparison with other Christian bodies. Nevertheless, the witness potential of a people can never be measured by numbers. It is determined only by the depth and vitality of its spiritual relationships. These are created through a personal union of each member with the living Christ. Therefore, the potential witness of this body cannot be calculated, neither can the effects of its witness be adequately tabulated and recorded. This volume is but a diligent attempt on the part of a number of conscientious persons to record, to the best of their ability, some of the evidence of that life and witness.

The pages of this Yearbook tell, not only what is being done through the Mennonite Church, but also something of how it is being done. Congregations are the association of members united for worship, nurture, fellowship, witness, and service. District conferences are the association of congregations united for the purpose of strengthening one another's life and witness, and for doing together what it would be impossible to do separately. General Conference is then an association of these district conferences united for the purpose of sharing, discerning, and working to strengthen the life of the total brotherhood as well as to carry out certain aspects of the church's mission which could not be done separately. Certain tasks, because of their size and nature, require the total resources of the church. The structural chart on the following page describes the present organization.

Mennonite General Conference carries out its purpose through a biennial assembly of delegates, with one delegate for each of the 200 members or fraction thereof of each of the respective district conferences. The biennial session is to be held this year, August 21-24, at the Christopher Dock School near Lansdale, Pennsylvania, with the Franconia District Conference serving as host. The theme chosen by the program committee is taken from I John 4:17, "As he is, so are we in this world." Major issues to be brought before the Conference body at this next biennial session will have to do with the concern for the church's ministry, the nature and extent of interchurch relationships, the church's structure for a most effective mission in the world, and other concerns brought from the various committees and agencies of the church.

The work of Mennonite General Conference is carried out between the biennial sessions through its General Council and various committees. The Council is a body of 35-40 brethren, representing the district conferences, general boards, and committees. This group meets together at least once annually for two full days of intensive work.

The Executive Committee serves as a steering committee for the General Council and for General Conference. It endeavors to prepare and sharpen the issues to be presented to the General Council and then to General Conference. The Executive Secretary of Mennonite General Conference serves as the executive officer of these bodies.

The Commission for Christian Education is charged with the responsibility of giving assistance to the local congregations in their task of Christian nurture and education. This commission is an organization of twelve men who have been elected to carry this broad scope of work. This group then enlists a number of divisional secretaries to assist in carrying out specific assignments. The commission has an increasing concern to provide the kind of resource and guidance needed by congregations in their total nurture program. They have been led more and more to a wholistic approach in the Christian education task. The commission is working vigorously in bold and creative ways to give leadership to the church in its increasing demands in nurture for mission. The revolutionary change that is taking place in our society places a heavy responsibility on this commission. Their field secretary has a busy schedule in trying to coordinate the total task and in endeavoring to keep close to the heartbeat of the congregations.

A very significant part of the work of the Commission for Christian Education has been its youth work. The largest gathering of the Mennonite Church in 1966 was the MYF Convention held in Estes Park, Colorado, in the month of August. Months of concentrated effort were invested in planning this convention. A total of 2,410 persons were registered in the convention. Nearly 300 persons were involved in one way or another in carrying out the program. These young people invested $177,932.85 in this convention. Many of these young people returned to their homes testifying of new encounters with Jesus Christ, and as having reached new levels of Christian commitment.

The Ministerial Committee of Mennonite General Conference is charged with responsibility for the ministerial concerns of the brotherhood. Their scope of work includes recruitment, training, placement, financial support, and other areas of need in providing the church with effective leadership. Two areas of study were given most serious concern during the past biennium. These were a thorough study of present practices in financial support of pastors, and the development of an information office for pastoral placement.

The Worship Committee is concerned for the worship practices of the church. The way we worship is extremely important. Worship determines conduct. A major task which developed from this department in recent years has been the preparation of a new church hymnal. This has been a joint project of the two larger Mennonite bodies and is expected to be available to congregations in 1969. A number of other studies are in process by the committee.

The Stewardship Department has brought us to a new understanding of our stewardship of the Gospel. This insight has been long overdue. It is a call to enlistment of every member to a complete involvement with Christ in the ministry of reconciliation.

The Committee on Peace and Social Concerns probes our consciences to realize the social implications of the Gospel, and to more sensitivity to social issues in our society. This committee keeps in focus our church-state relationship, and promotes concern for peace and the Christian attitude in areas of conflict and tension.

The Mennonite Church has a Historical and Research Committee to help us maintain perspective in our life and work. No persons or groups can completely sever themselves from their past without suffering impoverishment. We understand ourselves and get proper perspective by studying our past. Through the years the Mennonite Historical and Research Committee has given us many new insights and understandings through their careful and diligent work. A Mennonite library and archives are maintained in the Seminary building on the Goshen College campus, and the executive director gives untiring efforts in this area of work.

The character of relationship varies for different parts of this structure. In general, solid connecting lines represent both a formal subsidiary relationship (downward) and a functional responsibility (upward). Dotted lines represent formal provision for organizational relationship, but with advisory functions only. The dots enclosing the Study Commission on Church Organization represent its ad hoc character.

Mutual Aid has been a vital part of the Mennonite brotherhood throughout its history. The Mennonite Mutual Aid organization has made significant steps forward in recent years. This past year has been its first in operating as a fraternal organization. Through this development it has been able to extend and expand its services to the brotherhood.

The Church Welfare Committee operating under the direction of Mennonite General Conference has a burden and concern for the total spiritual welfare of the brotherhood. The brethren on this committee lead us in our endeavor to maintain the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace and love. They seek to identify and understand current issues affecting our brotherhood.

Three major autonomous boards serve the church in the area of publication, education, and missions and relief service.

Mennonite Publication Board

The Mennonite Publication Board serves the church in the preparation and distribution of literature. It works closely with all other organizations of the church in providing the kind of materials essential to the church's mission in the world. The Mennonite Publishing House at Scottdale employs more than 200 persons. During 1966 total sales were over $3,000,000. The chain of seven Provident Bookstores operated by the Mennonite Publishing House make the literature accessible to our Mennonite constituency, and also to constituencies of other denominations. The bookstores also serve as a Christian witness in their respective communities.

Mennonite Board of Education

The academic concerns of the church have been advanced through the Mennonite Board of Education. This Board endeavors to formulate a philosophy of education and to establish policies by which educational institutions may be governed. It administers two colleges, namely, Goshen and Hesston. The Goshen College Biblical Seminary is under the administration of Goshen College.

Goshen College is serving the church with over 200 persons as faculty members, administrators, staff members, or other employees. A total of 57 persons serve in a similar way through Hesston College.

Eastern Mennonite College is administered by a board of directors under the Virginia District Conference.

There are eleven four-year high schools being operated in the Mennonite Church. Most of these are administered by boards under district conferences. In addition to these eleven four-year high schools, there are approximately eighteen schools offering less than a four-year program. There are 39 elementary schools being operated in the Mennonite Church. Most of these are operated as patron schools.

The Board of Education is available to the constituency for giving counsel on all levels of education, even though it is only administratively responsible for the operation of the two colleges and the Goshen Seminary.

Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities

This organization, most frequently referred to as our general mission board, promotes the mission and relief interests of the church and administers major programs of witness, church extension, and relief service around the world.

In the year of 1966 this Board administered programs of one type or another in eighteen different countries beyond the American continent. Involved in this endeavor were 243 overseas workers. A total of 798 persons were employed in its program of Health and Welfare. About 263 persons served in programs of Voluntary Service. This Board administered home missions which employed at least 69 persons under its administration. Radio and literature programs have been expanding rapidly under the Board's Mass Communications Department, and now has 31 persons serving in this way. A task of this proportion entails a great amount of administrative detail. It requires 47 persons working in the office headquarters to perform these duties. This makes a total of 1,451 persons working in the mission, welfare, and relief ministry of the church through this general board. The church contributed more than one and one-half million dollars for this ministry.

The Lancaster Conference also operates a foreign mission program under its Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. This board has worked in eleven overseas countries with a total of 225 appointed workers, including 22 who are in the Voluntary Service program. The total cost of their overseas program was approximately $565,000.

Mennonite Central Committee

The Mennonite Church also cooperates with all other Mennonite bodies through its Mennonite Central Committee. The MCC received a total of $1,150,000 for foreign relief service during the past year. The MCC is currently active in 34 countries. A total of 578 serve in its programs, in addition to those serving in the mental health programs and institutions.

Mennonite World Conference

The Eighth Mennonite World Conference is scheduled for July 23-30, 1967, in Amsterdam. More than 65 delegates will be representing our brotherhood at the significant assembly, with a number of others attending.

Change Demands New Structures

The church is not organization; it is persons. However, in order that these persons whose lives have been transformed by the Holy Spirit can fulfill God's purpose for their corporate life and ministry in the world, it becomes necessary to delineate responsibilities and assign specific tasks. The Mennonite Church has experienced rapid numerical growth in the past half century and more. In fact, the past sixty-five years have almost brought a quadrupling of its membership. As this growth developed and as needs emerged, organization developed to meet that need. The revolutionary changes taking place in our society bring rapid changes in the life of the church and present new demands. These revolutionary changes call for new structures. The multiplicity of committees established in the past as needs became apparent have now developed into an overlapping of responsibilities. Mennonite General Conference has been sensitive to this situation, and has now set up a twelve-man commission to make a thorough study of our present church structure and needs. This commission is in the midst of a diligent study, and will be giving a rather thorough progress report to the next biennial session of Mennonite General Conference.

Total Contributions

The total contributions as reported by the Mennonite Church last year were $6,513,093. This figure does not include additional sums given directly by individuals which were not reported to congregational treasurers. A total of $3,375,695 of these reported contributions were for the work of local congregations. The remainder was given for education, for mission causes outside the local congregation, for relief and service, and other ministries.

The Challenge

This is the Mennonite Church, January 1, 1967. God has blessed the diligent efforts of the church to carry out His mission in the world. "A great door and effectual" lies before the church (I Cor. 16:9). The needs of our world are increasingly unprecedented. We do well to heed the admonition of the apostle as given to the Ephesian Church, recorded in Eph. 5:15, 16, and as paraphrased by J. B. Phillips, "Live life, then, with a due sense of responsibility, not as men who do not know the meaning and purpose of life but as those who do. Make the best use of your time, despite all the difficulties of these days."

"It is required of stewards that they be found trustworthy." (I Cor. 4:2).

Mennonite Church Financial "Askings" for 1966-67

Well over 50 percent of the Mennonite churches now distribute their contributions according to a plan adopted at the congregation's annual meeting. This plan is usually called a budget and is based on the program or ministry which the congregation accepts for itself for the forthcoming year. To assist congregations in the preparation of their budgets the boards and agencies of the church give guidance in the form of "per member askings."

Congregations use these per member amounts and the membership listed for their congregation in the Mennonite Yearbook to determine the ratio of their giving to be distributed to the various church agencies.

The amounts suggested here are not ceilings. Larger congregations (those above 125 in membership) should attempt to do 110-125 percent of the per member askings. This will make up for the smaller congregations (those below 50 in membership) that find it difficult to meet the full askings.

	Per member amount needed each year
1. Mennonite General Conference Includes Commission for Christian Education, Peace and Social Concerns Committee, MCC Peace Section, Church Welfare Committee, Mutual Aid, Historical and Research Committee, Ministerial Committee, Stewardship Program, MYF, Worship Committee. Mennonite World Conference, General Council, and Executive Committee.	$ 2.75
2. Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities Includes foreign and home missions, relief (through MCC), VS and I-W services, broadcasting, and Health and Welfare.	30.00
3. Higher Education Includes operating and building funds for Hesston, Goshen, Eastern Mennonite, and Conrad Grebel. (Each congregation distributes its higher education funds to the college in its own area.)	10.00*
4. Goshen College Biblical Seminary Tuition in a seminary is very low. The seminary must be subsidized in excess of $1,200 per student. This money is used for faculty salaries, library, plant maintenance, and student scholarships.	2.00
5. District Conference Needs The district conference askings are so broad and varied that it is impractical to present them here. Congregations should check with their district conference officers or stewardship secretary for the exact figures for their conference. This figure usually includes the district conference and its mission board, secondary and elementary school (if any), mental hospitals, WMSA, camps, homes for the aged, Christian Workers' Conference, as well as other agencies the district may have.

*Congregations show their poorest performance in their response for higher education. Only about $4 per member is contributed toward a need of $10. Hence congregations are asked to take more seriously the $10 per member asking. Our colleges need nearly double the amount that the congregations are currently contributing, to carry out the educational requests from the church.

Membership 13,268; Congregations 124

Note: The congregations in this conference are arranged in alphabetical order. The code numbers assigned to the bishops and overseers may be used to determine the bishop oversight for any congregation by referring to the number listed after the congregational name. The bishops and overseers are also listed in the congregations in which they have pastoral responsibilities in addition to bishop oversight. The symbol o indicates overseer of an organized area under the new area supervisor arrangement.

Note: The congregations in this conference are arranged in alphabetical order. The code numbers assigned to the area overseers may be used to determine the overseer for any congregation by referring to the number listed after the congregational name. The overseers are also listed in the congregations in which they have pastoral responsibilities in addition to being area overseer. A few of the congregations have their own bishop and are not under an overseer.

The Mennonite Encyclopedia

A modern reference work on Anabaptist and Mennonite history.

This encyclopedia covers the 435-year history of the faith, life, and culture of Anabaptists in Europe and the Mennonites throughout the world. It presents men, movements, and places in their relation to the Mennonites. A few of the many articles covered are Arminianism, Baptism, Baptist, Calvin, Church, Communion, Congo, Deaconess, Education, Farming, Furniture, Grebel, Hubmaier, Hymnology, Industry, Literature, Marriage, Nurnberg, Ordinances, Publishers, Reedley, Russia, Schmidt, Seminaries, Sunday School, Tazewell County, Ukraine, Virginia Conference, Waldner, Worship, and Zurich.

"The Mennonite Encyclopedia" has been jointly edited by historians and scholars of the three major North American Mennonite bodies, the Mennonite Church, the General Conference of Mennonites, and the Mennonite Brethren Church. More than 2,700 writers have contributed articles to this reference work.

The four volumes contain 3,880 pages in which appear 14,000 articles, 463 illustrations, and over 100 maps of Mennonite communities in Europe, North America, South America, and other parts of the world. Brief articles treat more than 2,000 known Anabaptist martyrs--Swiss, German, Austrian, and Dutch. Complete four-volume set $42.50--HP1018
